

Big is beautiful

The Stendker company is Europe's largest discus fish hatchery. The hatchery, with its large buildings, in which thousands of high-quality discus fish are bred each month, is located in Warendorf, Germany. "Stendker Discus Fish" has become a well-known brand name, and the fish are on display and available for purchase in many high-quality specialist pet shops. The company does not sell its fish directly to end customers, but you can request and order Stendker discus fish in your local specialist pet shop.

Once a year, the Stendker company displays its most magnificent discus fish at the "Zierfisch und Aquarium" Exhibition in Germany. At this year's German "Discus Fish Championships", the company also displayed its fish.

As the company does not intend to return the discus fish on display back to its hatchery, it is a unique opportunity for hobby aquarium owners, to purchase these discus fish directly, then and there.

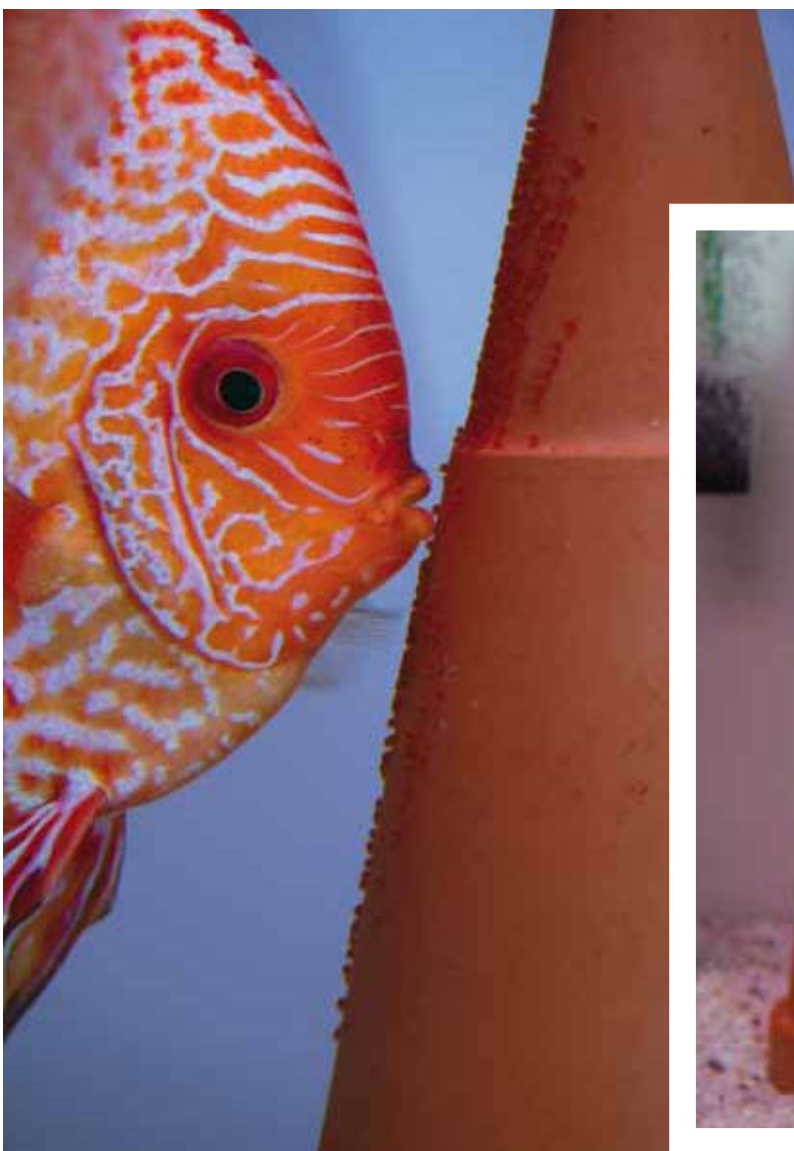

Because these fish are so impressively large, and because most of the discus pairs even begin to spawn during the exhibition, the customer demand is naturally very strong.

Here are our photos of the most stunning Stendker discus fish on display at the exhibition in Duisburg this October.

A pair of Red Turquoise discus fish in the Stendker company's exhibition aquariums at the Discus Show in Duisburg, Germany. Usually, the male fish will be a little larger in size. However, as both fish have grown and developed splendidly, the size difference is hardly noticeable.

These spotted reds discus fish are also a pair and they immediately begin swimming closely together. The show's visitors observe them as a harmonious breeding pair.

These adolescent discus fish are already displaying their full colours. The pairs on display began spawning on the second day of the exhibition, so that visitors could soon admire several clutches of eggs. A truly fascinating sight!
